

More Traveller Women for Election

We are delighted to be able to offer an exciting new six week training programme which is open to all Traveller women in Ireland who would like to know more about politics, campaigning, and running for election.

More Traveller Women for Election

Following consultation with Traveller women and based on work in collaboration between Women For Election and the National Traveller Women's Forum (NTWF), the six-week political leadership programme will be co-designed with participants, and will offer a mix of in-person and online sessions.

Broad topics to be covered include: media skills, presentation skills, introduction to politics, introduction to campaigning, confidence building, and realising your own power and political potential.

Places are limited so please register by midday, on Friday, April 21st. There is no fee for this course. Please see below for details and registration:
